

Boost Your Website's SEO With These Safe Backlinks

What Does Your Website's Link Profile Look Like?

Does Google See Lots of Good Links to Your Website?
Why Not?

Hi There!

Even though the golden days of ranking websites easy are over, backlinks are still important. Links to your website still play a huge part in how Google ranks your website.

Although it's not good to all of a sudden, get hundreds of links to your website, you still need to build quality links over time... but where do you get them from?

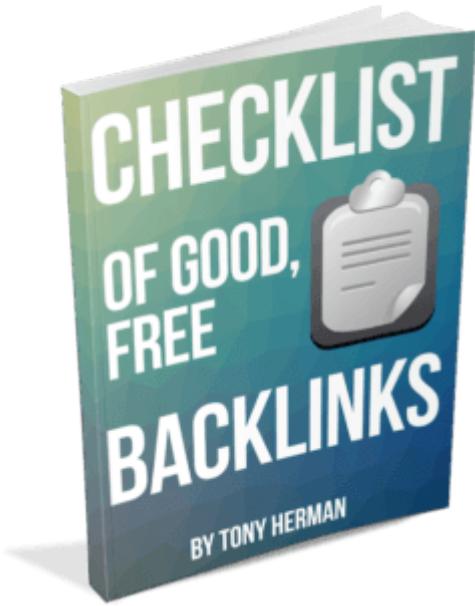

The right backlinks can make a huge difference in your rankings. Get the wrong links and you're really just wasting your time. Who wants that?

Links from spammy, irrelevant, or low-quality sites can make Google see your site as suspicious. That's why it's important to not just build links, but also check where they're coming from.

If you find toxic backlinks pointing to your site, try to get them removed or use Google's Disavow Tool as a last resort. A clean backlink profile helps protect your rankings and keeps your SEO efforts moving in the right direction.

Finding Good Backlinks

I've put together a checklist of sources where you can find the best backlinks for your website because this is information that's too good to keep to myself:

This checklist lists where you can get free links to your website. Free backlinks that are good backlinks is what you need. If your competition hasn't gotten a hold of this list, then you now have an easy way to beat them and rank higher... it's just that simple!

Bonus: Key Linking Secret Included

I even give one, key backlinking strategy anyone building links to their website really needs to know before they start getting backlinks. It's critical to success and not getting dinged by Google.

The book has been updated in April 2025.
